

Coaching for Early-Career Female Researchers

The Faculty of Medicine (MED) offers individual, process-oriented coaching to support doctoral and postdoctoral female researchers in advancing their academic careers.

Coaching sessions—three 90-minute meetings—are tailored to the specific needs of early-career researchers (Clinician-Scientists, PostDocs). Topics are jointly defined and cover key areas:

Career Development

Career goals, strategic planning, research profile building, academic positioning

Leadership & Personal Skills

Leadership roles, project management, self-leadership, handling feedback

Work-Life Balance & Resilience

Stress management, work-life integration, sustainable performance

Communication & Networking

Scientific positioning, international networking, personal branding
